OCCUPATION OF BUREAU OF INDIAN AFFAIRS BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D.C.
NOVEMBER 2 - 8, 1972
ARREST OF LESLIE HUNTER WHITTEN, JR.
EMPLOYEE OF COLUMNIST JACK ANDERSON
JANUARY 31, 1973
THEFT AND DESTRUCTION OF GOVERNMENT PROPERTY

As you are aware, from November 2, 1972, through November 8, 1972, the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Building, 19th Street and Constitution Avenue, Washington, D. C., was occupied by several hundred American Indians. Extensive damage was inflicted on the building and equipment before the Indians departed on November 8, 1972. Numerous items of Government property including official documents and office-type equipment were removed by the Indians.

A Metropolitan Police Department officer, Washington, D. C., working in an undercover capacity in coordination with the FBI, developed a close association with Henry Lyle Adams, National Director of the Survival of American Indians Association, who was actively involved in negotiations during the "sacking" of the BIA Building. This officer was personally present in the building during this period of time. Through his association with Adams and one Nita Collins, an associate of Adams, the officer learned the records removed from the BIA Building were distributed to various places in the United States. In January, 1973, the police officer advised Adams personally had told him some of the stolen documents would be turned over to Jack Anderson, the nationally syndicated columnist, through Anderson's associate, Leslie Hunter Whitten, Jr.. in return for a sum of $100,000. Adams further advised the officer that Whitten had on several occasions previously viewed other documents stolen from the BIA Building.

On January 30, 1973, the undercover police officer, together with Nita Collins, went to the Greyhound Bus Terminal, Washington, D. C., and picked up three cartons of documents which they then took to Adams' apartment at [redacted] [redacted], Washington, D. C. These cartons were addressed to Adams at this location. Adams told the officer the documents should be brought to his apartment so they could go through them to determine which would be given to Anderson. En route to the Greyhound Bus Terminal, Collins told the officer that if they were caught they were to say they were just picking up the documents to turn them over to the police. Collins told the source the documents were from BIA.

While returning the cartons containing the documents to Adams' apartment, the officer observed, through a split in a carton, notebooks and other items which appeared to be similar to items he, the officer, had personally removed from the BIA Building. Prior to this, the officer had questioned Collins as to whether Jack Anderson would get copies of the BIA files or the originals; and Collins replied that Anderson would get the originals unless copies could be made.

The facts as developed up to the late afternoon of January 30, 1973, were discussed with Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins, Jr., Washington, D. C., who authorized the seizure and arrest of known persons involved with these documents. At approximately 10:00 a.m., January 31, 1973, Special Agents of this Bureau observed Whitten and Adams outside of the apartment building where Adams resides with two boxes previously described by the officer. Based on the authority of the Assistant United States Attorney, they were arrested and charged with violations of Section 641 and 2071, Title 18, United States Code--possession and concealment of documents and other property of the BIA. The two cartons in their possession and a third carton subsequently located were seized, and it was determined they did contain original documents belonging to the BIA removed during the November siege of the BIA Building.

For your information, in connection with Collins' comment to the officer to the effect that if they were caught they were to say they were picking up the documents to turn them over to the police, the three cartons seized by this Bureau had written on the top of each box, "WFO FBI, Attention: Dennis P. Hyten." Special Agent Hyten is the Agent to whom this case is assigned in the Washington Field Office of the FBI. The inference and possible future defense by Adams and Whitten that they were bringing this material to the Washington Field Office of the FBI will be countered by the testimony of the undercover police officer relative to prior conversations indicating a conspiracy in this matter.

OCCUPATION OF BUREAU OF INDIAN AFFAIRS BUILDING,
WASHINGTON, D. C.,
NOVEMBER 2-8, 1972-
THEFT AND DESTRUCTION OF GOVERNMENT PROPERTY

This concerns the sacking of the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Building, Washington, D. C., November 2-8, 1972, wherein Indian demonstrators barricaded themselves within the building, causing extensive damage and stealing Government records and artifacts.

A police officer in an undercover capacity infiltrated the Indian movement in the Washington, D. C. area, gaining the trust and confidence of Hank Adams, an Indian leader who was heavily involved in the negotiations between the Indian occupants and Government officials. Adams, together with an associate, is reportedly traveling to North Carolina in the near future where a large quantity of stolen Government documents, believed from the BIA Building, are stored. The undercover officer will accompany Adams and allegedly columnist Jack Anderson is to buy these documents for possibly $200,000. The undercover officer is cooperating with the FBI and is willing to testify if necessary for prosecutive purposes.

In order to protect his identity and insure his safety, our Washington Field Office will not conduct a surveillance of the movement to and from North Carolina; however, it is anticipated the undercover officer will be in a position to use an on-body recorder upon his return to Washington, D. C. when the recovered stolen documents are to be turned over possibly to a member of Anderson's staff. Consequently, authority is requested for a period of 30 days from its approval for use of an on-body recorder by the undercover officer during any transfer of the documents to persons other than Government representatives.

Approved for 30 days

M Per FOIPA Request

It is noted that SA HYTEN did accept three drawings, one portable dictaphone, six IBM elements, six IBM dictaphone belts, one Sony foot switch, and one IBM foot switch stolen from the Bureau of Indian Affairs from ADAMS on 12/11/72 which information was also set forth in re airtel 2/1/73. On that occasion SA HYTEN did give ADAMS a receipt according to standard Bureau procedure signed by HYTEN and ADAMS.

The following also appears on page 1:

"On 'one or two' occasions since then, ADAMS said, he had mailed BIA material to HYTEN, at the field office in the old Post Office Building."

It is noted that on one occasion in November, 1972, SA HYTEN did receive in the regular mail a legal size manila envelope addressed to him and bearing the return address of HANK ADAMS. The envelope contained fragmentary bits and pieces of brown paper which were generally illegible. After careful review by SA HYTEN and in the absence of any note explaining these pieces it was determined by SA HYTEN they were not pertinent.

"ADAMS said ~~he~~ first wanted to show the documents to DENNIS CREEDON, an investigator for the Committee, to show 'our good faith in returning the documents.'"

It is noted that the details concerning ADAMS' appointment with DENNIS CREEDON on 1/31/73 is set forth in re WFO teletype to Bureau dated 2/1/73.

"The two men, and ANITA COLLINS, news editor for the American Indian Movement (AIM), were charged with illegally receiving stolen government documents. The charge is a felony punishable by up to a year in jail and a fine of $10,000."

It is noted that Title 18, USC, Section 641, provides for a maximum penalty for illegally receiving stolen Government property valued at $100 or more of $10,000 and ten years or both.

"ADAMS and Miss COLLINS agree that 'JOHNNY' picked up the cartons about 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Greyhound express office, 914 I St., N.W., and delivered them to the apartment, but they say there was no conversation about turning them over to WHITTEN."

It is noted that on 1/30/73 the undercover police officer asked ANITA COLLINS how much JACK ANDERSON is paying for the documents. She replied he is not paying anything except for the shipment of the documents. She also told him ANDERSON gets the originals unless she can get copies.

In addition she previously had told him LES WHITTEN had gone to either Arizona or North Carolina to go through the Bureau of Indian Affairs' documents.

The following also appears on page 6:

"ADAMS suggested that the agents knew when to stake out the apartment 'because [redacted] was supposed to pick me up at 10 a.m. and take me to the BIA.'"

"Instead, the undercover agent went to Miss COLLINS' house at [redacted], and arrested her."

It is noted that according to the undercover policeman when he and ANITA COLLINS dropped the documents at ADAMS' apartment on 1/30/73 they found ADAMS asleep. Therefore he took COLLINS to [redacted]. When he dropped her off she told him to pick her up there at 10 a.m., 1/31/73. She did not tell him why he was to pick her up.

b6
b7c

In an article appearing on page A-5 of the "The Evening Star and Daily News" entitled "Papers BIA-bound, reporter contends" the following appeared:

"WHITTEN adamantly denied that he knew Tuesday that ADAMS and COLLINS had received the documents, or that he had made any arrangements for ADAMS to call when he was about to take any documents to the BIA, as suggested in the complaint."

It is noted that the undercover police officer indicated on 1/30/73, he was told JACK ANDERSON's secretary, or possibly LES WHITTEN was to pick up the documents that day.

Re WFO airtel to Bureau, 2/2/73.

The following is for the information of the Bureau:

In an article appearing on page B1 of 2/5/73 edition of the "Washington Post", an article entitled "Safe Streets, Safe Papers" a Commentary by NICHOLAS VON HOFFMAN he states: in paragraph Number 6 "They arrested him as he was helping an Indian leader carry several cartons of this stolen material. The Indian was in a hurry. Why? He had an appointment with an FBI agent". It is noted that WADAMEN had a 10:00 a.m. appointment on 1/31/73 with DENNIS CREEDON of the House Appropriations Committee but he had no appointment with SA HYTEN or any other FBI Agent.

In paragraph 7 "The Indian was going to return the portion of the documents he had in his possession. He'd done the same thing before. He even had the agent's name - DENNIS P. HYTEN - written on the carton tops, but as WHITTEN tells the story, when they got down to the jail and they'd mug-shot him, he asked them to take a picture of the cartons as evidence of their intent. 'This camera doesn't take pictures of tops of boxes,' they told WHITTEN, who rather wisely believes that that little piece of evidence will never be seen again."

It is noted that when WHITTEN was being processed at WFO, not the jail, he did request that the tops of the cartons in question be photographed with the mug-shot camera. It was explained to him at the time that this camera is stationary and therefore not adaptable for this use.

It is further noted that photographs were later taken of the carton tops with a speed graphic camera before submission to the FBI Laboratory and Identification Division.

In paragraph Number 8 "Even if LES were guilty of what they've trumped up against him, he'd have committed no crime. These papers have no monetary value. Their only value is as evidence of improper or possibly illegal conduct by the government officials who caused LES to be arrested",

It is noted that it is a Federal crime to possess stolen Government property and the documents in question do have a monetary value in excess of $100 thereby constituting a felony.

THEFT OF GOVERNMENT PROPERTY

This will confirm conversations on February 1 and 2, 1973, between Mr. Carl W. Belcher of the Criminal Division and Inspector Henry A. Schutz, Jr., of this Bureau relative to an approach made by syndicated columnist Jack Anderson to Special Agent (SA) Dennis Phillip Hyten of our Washington Field Office on February 1, 1973.

As you are aware, SA Hyten was contacted by an individual who identified himself as Jack Anderson at approximately 12:35 p.m., on February 1, 1973, and queried as to whether he had any comment to make relative to the arrest of Anderson's employee, Leslie Hunter Whitten, Jr. No comment was made by SA Hyten, at which time Anderson informed SA Hyten that he had violated the First Amendment of the Constitution and his actions were inconsistent with his sworn duty to uphold the Constitution of the United States. SA Hyten was informed that Anderson intended to conduct a thorough investigation into his background to determine how a person like him came to be employed by the FBI.

Anderson advised SA Hyten that he, Anderson, possessed information that Hyten was well aware Hank Adams was collecting the stolen Bureau of Indian Affairs documents from various Indian groups for the express purpose of returning them to the Government. Anderson stated that SA Hyten concealed his knowledge of Adams' true purpose in collecting the documents and, therefore, personally is responsible for the travesty represented by Whitten's arrest.

Anderson stated he intends to go to Congress, and he will have SA Hyten "hauled up" before Congress and intends to write numerous stories concerning SA Hyten and this incident. Anderson stated that at any time SA Hyten desired to discuss this matter with Anderson and give him his side of the story, his door would be open. SA Hyten declined the opportunity to discuss the matter with Anderson. Anderson thanked Hyten and the conversation ended.

SA Hyten then placed a telephone call to Anderson's office at 1612 K Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., telephone number 347-4325, and asked to speak to Anderson. Anderson, according to a woman answering the telephone, was not in; but at approximately 1:15 p.m., a person identifying himself as Jack Anderson, the columnist, returned SA Hyten's call. SA Hyten identified the voice as being that of the first caller. During the second conversation Anderson again extended the opportunity for SA Hyten to discuss the entire case concerning Whitten's arrest. SA Hyten again declined to comment.

After a review of the facts, Mr. Belcher indicated this type of conduct, although reprehensible and reasonably intimidating in its effect, does not come within the purview of the Obstruction of Justice or Criminal Investigations Statutes, Section 1503 and 1510 respectively, Title 18, United States Code. Specifically, according to Mr. Belcher, SA Hyten does not fall within the description of individuals covered under Section 1503 (influencing or injuring officer, juror, or witness generally), nor did the communication have the effect on the criminal investigation as required by statute under Section 1510.

In accordance with Mr. Belcher's request, any additional contacts of FBI personnel by Anderson or members of his staff will immediately be brought to your attention.

BUREAU WILL OBSERVE THAT THE FACTS AS RELATED HEREIN WHILE POSING A PROBLEM OF PROOF WOULD SEEM TO CONSTITUTE A VIOLATION OF THE OBSTRUCTION STATUTE, TITLE 18, SECTION 1503. THIS MATTER HAS NOT BEEN DISCUSSED WITH THE UNITED STATES ATTORNEY FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA. THE BUREAU MAY DESIRE TO DISCUSS THE ADVISABILITY OF FURTHER INVESTIGATION OF THIS INCIDENT WITH THE DEPARTMENT LOOKING TOWARD POSSIBLE PROSECUTION OF JACK ANDERSON FOR OBSTRUCTION OF JUSTICE.

Re WFO tel Bureau dated, 1/31/73.

The following comments are being provided the Bureau by WFO in view of two articles appearing in the 2/1/73 edition of "The Washington Post," a daily Washington, D.C. newspaper and an article appearing in the same days edition of the Evening Star and Daily News.

In an article appearing on page 1 and continued of page A4, of the above mentioned newspaper, and entitled "FBI Arrests Reporter in Stolen Data", the comment was made on page A4, "That (subject) WHITTEN was helping (subject) ADAMS in physical transportation of three cartons of BIA documents. That was because ADAMS, who had made arrangements to return the material to BIA, lacked his own transportation."

It is noted that ADAMS regularly utilized the undercover police officer for transportation purposes and that in fact this same officer had been instructed by ANITA COLLINS to pick her up at 10:00 A.M., on 1/31/73. Although the officer was ADAMS' main and most frequently used source of transportation, ADAMS is reported to have other associates who would furnish him transportation. In this same regard, it is further noted that the undercover officer did in fact transport ANITA COLLINS to the Washington, D.C. Greyhound Bus Terminal on 1/30/73, at which time COLLINS signed for and received the 3 cardboard boxes containing the stolen government documents. This, in itself, illustrates ADAMS' reliance on the undercover officer for transportation purposes and, coupled with the fact that the officer was available on the morning of 1/31/73, tends to suggest that WHITTEN was not essential for transportation purposes. [The arresting Agents noted that WHITTEN's vehicle was a 1973 Chevrolet Vega hatchback. The rear trunk lid and rear window form the hatch which can be raised to accommodate large packages if the rear seats are folded down. Upon his arrival, the rear seats of the WHITTEN's Vega were in the fold down position and this suggests that WHITTEN went to ADAMS' residence with the intent of picking up large packages. Concerning the statement that the material was being returned to BIA, this is currently under vigorous investigation.

In regard to the comment concerning a MICHAEL HUNT, "....a bodyguard of ADAMS," a reporter who identified himself as FNU WELLS appeared at Apartment 503, 1464 R.I., N.W., Washington, D.C., and was advised by Special Agents of WFO that the apartment was "secured", no mention of HUNT was ever made. In further comments regarding the "disarray" of this apartment, it is pointed out that the apartment's condition was exactly the same as it was at the time of the arrest of DANIEL PIGEON and ALISON CERRI.

This article also refers to the fact that the recovered cartons were marked "with the name of DENNIS HYTEN, the special FBI agent" working on the investigation. The three recovered carton were marked "WFO - FBI, DENNIS P. HYTEN, 324-2010". The aforementioned number is extension located at SA HYTEN's desk. It is pointed out that SA HYTEN has interviewed subject ADAMS on two occasions and furnished ADAMS with the above number. On the second interview of ADAMS in December, 1972, as the Bureau is aware, ADAMS turned over two paintings and dictating unit stolen from BIA in November, 1972. During both interviews ADAMS indicated he would not devulge the source of his acquisition of stolen items.

WHITTEN was not provided photographs of the aforementioned cartons bearing SA HYTEN's name since this aspect can be litigated by his attorney in discovery motions. These cartons will be photographed by WFO for our own purposes.

In regard to the second article appearing in the Washington Post, on page A5, entitled, "Activists House Raided Again; BIA Documents Sought", suffice it to say Agents of WFO acted in a polite, efficient and firm manner in order to secure the premises of [REDACTED], [REDACTED], Washington, D.C., awaiting the arrival of search warrants for those premises.

b7C

In an article appearing in the 2/1/73 edition of the "Evening Star and Daily News", an additional Washington, D.C. newspaper, entitled "Reporter Charged with Possessing Stolen Documents", subject ADAMS is said to have stated "that these cardboard boxes had been addressed to him originally by undisclosed persons". It is noted a delivery receipt obtained from Washington, D.C. Greyhound Terminal shows the shipper to be Sintegleska, College Cinter (sp) Rosebud, S.D.

In the same article ADAMS indicated he wrote the name of FBI Agent DENNIS HYTEN, on the recovered cardboard boxes. However, later in the article, WHITTEN is to have said "he had personally written HYTEN's name on one box." This inconsistently is noted.

GENERAL INVESTIGATIVE DIVISION
SUMMARY

BACKGROUND: This concerns the FBI arrest 1/31/73 of Les Whitten (associate of columnist Jack Anderson), Henry Adams (known Indian leader), and Anita Collins, an associate of Adams, for possession of 3 cartons of Government documents taken during the "sacking" of Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Building, Washington, D. C., November, 1972. All were brought before U.S. Magistrate and were released pending hearing 2/15/73.

Attached identifies items submitted to Identification Division for latent fingerprint comparison. On 2/2/73 Whitten along with Anderson appeared on local television show. Comments recorded, being transcribed, and will be furnished to Bureau and Assistant U.S. Attorney Rudy separately.

On 2/2/73 Thomas Oxindine, Acting Director of Communications, BIA, interviewed, advised last week he saw Hank Adams in corridor of BIA and asked, "Is it true that we're getting documents back by the middle of February?" Adams replied, "That's what they tell me." No significance attached to comments by Oxindine.

On 2/2/73 Whitten called Oxindine, questioning him concerning above comment to Adams. Interview of other principal BIA officials completed. No information developed regarding prior arrangements made to return BIA documents

DETAILS: AT WASHINGTON, D.C.

PREDICATION

This investigation was predicated upon receipt of information on January 19, 1973, from the Metropolitan Police Department which is set forth as follows on Page 3.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription 2/2/73

THOMAS J. LYONS, JR., Officer, Metropolitan Police Department (MPD). Intelligence Division, home address [redacted] telephone [redacted], office telephone [redacted] furnished the following information:

An individual by the name of [redacted] who is a Metropolitan Police Department (MPD) police officer has been acting in an undercover capacity working closely with HANK ADAMS, a local Indian leader as well as ANITA COLLINS. [redacted] started a close association with ADAMS and COLLINS during and following the seizure and occupation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Building by several hundred intruders during the early part of November, 1972.

b7C

Officer LYONS advised that [redacted] had received information from ADAMS and COLLINS that plans were being made to proceed to North Carolina, possibly Pembroke, to pick up some stolen BIA documents for JACK ANDERSON. [redacted] ANITA were to select documents for ANDERSON. According to [redacted], ADAMS and COLLINS have been conferring with JACK ANDERSON to purchase the documents stolen from the BIA. Two sums of money had been mentioned concerning the purchase, those of $100,000 and $200,000.

b7C

According to [redacted], the files are supposedly moved every two weeks under armed guard to a different location. The files have been collected and are allegedly in the Pembroke, North Carolina area at an undisclosed location.

In the near future when VERN BELLECOURT gives the OK, [redacted] ANITA COLLINS to pick up the files and transport them back to Washington, D.C. for transfer to JACK ANDERSON.

b6
b7C

[redacted] HANK ADAMS and ANITA COLLINS with most of their transportation.

[REDACTED] LYONS that HANK ADAMS planned to give a press conference in the near future stating that the stolen BIA files will soon be returned to the government. It was the feeling [REDACTED] that the files would not be given back.

b6
b7C

The trip to North Carolina was to be in the near future and it had been on and off for some time.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription 2/2/73

[redacted], Officer, Metropolitan Police Department (MPD), Morals Division, was interviewed and furnished the following information:

He is the principal means of transportation for HANK ADAMS, an Indian leader in the Indian movement, and ANITA COLLINS. His association with ADAMS and COLLINS began approximately the first of November when several hundred Indians seized and occupied the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Building in Washington, D. C.

During this association with the two individuals he understood that HANK ADAMS had been negotiating with the columnist, JACK ANDERSON, to purchase stolen BIA documents which ADAMS would furnish to him.

[redacted] to go to an unknown location in North Carolina, possibly the area around Pembroke, to pick up documents which would be transported back to Washington, D. C. for exchange to JACK ANDERSON.

b6
b7C

ADAMS never specified the exact location of the documents and the trip was called off a couple of times.

The usual procedure during the day was for [redacted] to pick up ANITA COLLINS [redacted] proceed to any location that she desired. Sometimes he was to go directly to HANK ADAMS' apartment early in the morning around 10:00 a.m.

On January 30, 1973, [redacted] that while in the apartment of HANK ADAMS at [redacted] [redacted] at approximately 11:00 a.m., he was told by ADAMS that ANITA COLLINS [redacted] had some very important documents to pick up. HANK ADAMS picked up off of the table what appeared to be an envelope with a piece of paper in it and said to ANITA that I want you to go over and pick up these very important documents. [redacted] that ADAMS and ANITA COLLINS then laughed. [redacted] asked if the documents were the BIA documents and ANITA said yes. HANK ADAMS stated that they were to be picked up at the Greyhound Bus Station and were sent COD. ADAMS stated that the cartons weighed over 100 pounds and would be coming from South Dakota.

[] ANITA COLLINS then proceeded to the Greyhound Package Pickup Terminal, located in the 900 Block of I Street, N. W., after having driven around for a short time. While in the bus, [] ANITA how much JACK ANDERSON is paying for the documents. ANITA COLLINS stated that he is paying for the shipment of the documents. He also asked ANITA COLLINS if JACK ANDERSON gets original copies of these documents, and she said he gets the originals unless copies can be made.

[] that on the way to obtain the cartons at Greyhound, ANITA COLLINS stated something to the effect that if the FBI were to catch us that now would be the time. [] "What do we do if we are caught?" at which time ANITA COLLINS stated we'll say we were picking them up to turn them over to the police.

On February 1, 1973, [] the interviewing agent that on one occasion, date which is unrecalled, while speaking to ANITA COLLINS in reference to the BIA documents, COLLINS stated that LES WHITTEN had gone to a certain location to review documents. [] does not remember the location but believes it to be either Arizona or North Carolina. COLLINS stated that WHITTEN went through some of the documents and "while he was down there he really had a good time."

When questioned regarding the delivery of the three cartons to HANK ADAMS' apartment, [] that HANK ADAMS was asleep at the time he carried the cartons into the apartment. It was at this time that two individuals other than ADAMS, [] COLLINS were in the apartment. [] knew the individuals as DAN PIGEON, and PUMA.

ANITA COLLINS made the statement that she would like to go through the documents now but HANK is asleep and he wants to go through them himself.

The boxes were sealed [] left the apartment. One of the large boxes was split at one of the corners [] noticed that the items inside the box were similar to some of the documents that he personally handled while he was in the BIA Building in early November.

Special Agents PETER J. PAUL, KENNETH M. RUSSELL, ROBERT E. LILL, CHARLES W. HARVEY, and EDWARD R. LEARY, were operating a fixed observation post in the Holiday Inn, Room 226, 15th and [REDACTED], from 8:00 am until 10:08 am on January 31, 1973. This observation post was being operated for the purpose of observing the front entrance of [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] building, in order to determine who was entering the building.

b6
b7C

At 9:45 am, the first arrival, a white male, observed by Special Agents PAUL, HARVEY and RUSSELL, exited a 1973 Chevrolet Vega bearing current Maryland License JE 9901 and proceeded into the building. A check of Maryland registrations determined at 10:07 am that this vehicle was registered to LESLIE HUNTER WHITTEN, JR., and PHYLLIS WEBBER WHITTEN.

At 10:08 am this same white male was observed exiting the building with a second male. Both males were carrying one brown cardboard box, each approximately 12 inches X 18 inches X 24 inches. Both boxes appeared to be of same weight based on the obvious effort exerted in carrying them.

Previously Special Agents ROBERT E. LILL, CHARLES W. HARVEY, EDWARD R. LEARY were instructed by Special Agent PETER J. PAUL to position themselves with two official vehicles in close proximity to the Rhode Isle Apartment building.

Special Agents PAUL and RUSSELL observing the exiting of the two males carrying the boxes at 10:08 am, the two official vehicles were contacted by radio by Special Agent PAUL and instructions were issued to place the two males in custody.

At this time, Special Agents PAUL and RUSSELL exited the fixed observation post and proceeded to the front of the Rhode Isle and assisted in the arrest.

About 10:09 a.m., SA EDWARD R. LEARY observed an individual whom he believed to be Mr. LESLIE H. WHITTEN, JR., walking from the front of an apartment building located at [REDACTED], Washington, D.C. (WDC). At that time, the individual was carrying a large brown cardboard box toward a 1973 Chevrolet "Vega" automobile, two door, orange in color, bearing Maryland License number JE-9901. SA LEARY also observed an individual, later identified as HENRY L. ADAMS, walking toward the front door of the noted apartment building. SA LEARY further noted that a second cardboard carton similar in description to that described above, was lying on the sidewalk adjacent to the Chevrolet Vega described above. SA LEARY approached the individual and addressed him as "Mr. WHITTEN". Mr. WHITTEN immediately directed his attention to SA LEARY. SA LEARY then displayed to Mr. WHITTEN his official credentials, while orally advising him of his identity.

b7C

SA LEARY indicated to Mr. WHITTEN at that time that he was placing him (Mr. WHITTEN) under arrest for the possession of stolen government property, as he (SA LEARY) had reason to believe that the carton in Mr. WHITTEN's possession contained stolen government property, which property had been removed from the Bureau of Indian Affairs Building, WDC.

Mr. WHITTEN then indicated that there was no reason to arrest him for possession of that property, inasmuch as he was merely assisting in the transportation of the property to the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). He advised that the boxes were, in fact, addressed to the FBI.

Mr. WHITTEN set the carton he had been carrying down adjacent to the Chevrolet Vega, described above.

SA LEARY proceeded to orally advise Mr. WHITTEN that he had the right to remain silent; that any statement he might make at that time could be used against him in court; and that he had the right to consult with an attorney or legal counsel prior to making any statement. Mr. WHITTEN indicated that he understood his rights.

Interviewed on 1/31/73 at Washington, D.C. File # WFO 52-14124

by SA EDWARD R. LEARY ERL:sld Date dictated 2/5/73

Mr. WHITTEN stated again that he had intended to turn the property in his custody over to the FBI.

SA LEARY indicated to Mr. WHITTEN that he would be transported to the Washington Field Office (WFO) of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), where he would be afforded identification procedures, that is, fingerprinting and photographing. He was also advised that he would be permitted upon arrival at the WFO to contact his attorney by telephone.

Mr. WHITTEN removed a pen and paper from his coat and requested and received SA LEARY's full name. He then requested the names of all those Agents who were present at the scene of his arrest at that time. SA LEARY advised Mr. WHITTEN that he would be apprised of the identities of other Agent personnel present at the scene at a later time as appropriate.

Mr. WHITTEN again protested his arrest, stating that the property in his possession had been scheduled for delivery to the FBI.

SA DENNIS F. HOFFMAN arrived at the scene of Mr. WHITTEN's arrest at that time. Upon his arrival, SA HOFFMAN orally advised Mr. WHITTEN of his identity and displayed to him his official credentials as proof of his identity.

Mr. WHITTEN protested his arrest and indicated that he would voluntarily accompany the arresting Agents to their office with the property that had been in his possession.

SA LEARY advised Mr. WHITTEN that he would be handcuffed and transported to the WFO in accordance with normal arrest procedures.

SA CHARLES W. HARVEY, who was also present, observed that the rear seat in the above described Chevrolet "Vega" had been folded down to create trunk space within the vehicle. SA HARVEY then placed the two cardboard cartons, which were adjacent to that vehicle, in the trunk of a Bureau automobile. SA HARVEY placed a third carton, similar in appearance to those two cartons, in the trunk of another Bureau vehicle. They were subsequently transported to the WFO.

During Mr. WHITTEN's transportation to the WFO, SA LEARY again orally advised Mr. WHITTEN, in the presence of SA HOFFMAN, of his constitutional rights to remain silent and to consult with legal counsel. Mr. WHITTEN indicated again that he was familiar with those rights, and stated that SA LEARY had previously advised him of those rights.

During the course of Mr. WHITTEN's transportation to the WFO, he made repeated protests that his first amendment rights had been violated by his arrest. He reiterated that the property which had been in his possession at the time of his arrest, was to have been turned over to the FBI. He stated that information present on each of the cartons would verify his statements as the boxes were addressed to an Agent HYTER (phoentic) of the FBI.

Upon arrival at the WFO, Mr. WHITTEN was afforded standard identification procedures, that is, he was photographed, fingerprinted, and searched.

While at the WFO, Mr. WHITTEN was provided with a telephone. He subsequently contacted his attorney on that phone.

Mr. WHITTEN was furnished with a printed form entitled "Your Rights". He read the contents of that form and indicated that he understood his rights. After reading the noted form, Mr. WHITTEN advised that he would not sign the form without consulting first with his attorney.

Subsequently, Mr. WHITTEN's attorney, Mrs. BETTY MURPHY, arrived at the WFO. Mrs. MURPHY was afforded an opportunity to talk with her client, Mr. WHITTEN, privately.

During a search conducted of Mr. WHITTEN's person by SA ANGELO J. LANO, the following items were observed and recorded:

A brown cardboard box was observed on the first floor in the lobby adjacent to the elevator. This box bore a red hand printed address of "HANK ADAMS, [redacted] Wash., D.C. 20005". This address had been marked through in pencil and the other top flap bore pencil printing reflecting "WFO-FBI, ATTN: Mr. DENNIS P. HYTEN, 324-2010, D.C." The box also bore orange machine printing which in part read "Curity Tape-Tab Disposable Diapers."

A cursory examination of the contents of the box disclosed it contained numerous papers, notebooks, and documents pertaining to the United States Department of Interior. The box was confiscated as evidence and the confiscating agent affixed his initials "CWH" and the date "1/31/73", in addition to the letters "FBI" in black ball point pen ink to the top flap.

On January 31, 1973, at 11:44 a.m., Special Agents JOSEPH S. GOSSEAU, ROBERT S. BROWN and HARRISON WILLIAMS approached the front door of the residence located at [redacted] Washington, D.C. (WDC).

b7c

Special Agent GOSSEAU knocked at the door, whereupon a female, who identified herself as ANITA COLLINS, answered. Special Agent GOSSEAU identified himself as a Special Agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and stated that he had a warrant for her arrest, charging her in connection with the theft of Government property. COLLINS was thereafter advised of her rights orally by Special Agent GOSSEAU.

Following completion of the above, Special Agent GOSSEAU, accompanied by Special Agents BROWN and WILLIAMS, entered the residence located at [redacted] WDC. Upon entering the residence, the Special Agents observed a female who was later identified as Mrs. LANADA BOYER and two unidentified children. Shortly thereafter, a woman, who was previously observed outside this residence, entered the dwelling with a third unidentified child and identified herself as LENA ANGEL, a resident at that address. They were accompanied [redacted] a Metropolitan Police Department Under Cover Police Officer who knew the residents of [redacted] and had accompanied the Special Agents to that address.

ANITA COLLINS was then advised that she would be taken to the Washington Field Office, FBI, where she would be fingerprinted and photographed. Upon completion of this process, she was advised that she would be transported to the United States Marshal's Cell Block, United States Court House, WDC, and later this date would be afforded a hearing before a United States Magistrate at the United States Court House, WDC. COLLINS, BOYER and ANGEL were then advised that the dwelling, located at this address, would be secured in order to insure and prevent the possibility of removal or destruction of any evidence which may be located on this premise. BOYER was further advised that no restrictions were placed on the occupants as to free movement about the dwelling or any use of the telephone. The occupants were further advised that they were free to leave the premise at will but that the dwelling would be secured after their departure until such time as the search warrant would be executed.

At this time, Special Agent GOSSEAUX telephonically contacted Supervisor JOHN RUHL, Washington Field Office, at the FBI, and requested that he instruct an additional Special Agent be sent to this residence to assist in securing said premise.

Upon completion of the above, Special Agent GOSSEAUX advised ANITA COLLINS that her pocketbook and coat would have to be searched in her presence by the Special Agents present before leaving this residence. Special Agent WILLIAMS searched COLLINS' pocketbook and Special Agent BROWN searched her coat. Upon completion of this action, both were turned over to COLLINS.

At 12:09 p.m., Special Agent BROWN placed handcuffs on ANITA COLLINS and advised her they were leaving this residence. COLLINS requested a non-prescriptive cough syrup, which was in her bedroom located on the Second Floor of the dwelling. Special Agent WILLIAMS accompanied LENA ANGEL to this room where said syrup was obtained and thereafter furnished to COLLINS. Upon completion of the above, Special Agents GOSSEAUX and BROWN escorted ANITA COLLINS to the street and placed her in Washington Field Office vehicle number 781.

Upon the arrival of Special Agent MICHAEL KING at 12:19 p.m., to assist Special Agent WILLIAMS in securing said residence, ANITA COLLINS was then transported to the Washington Field Office, FBI. Accompanying said Special Agents and COLLINS was Metropolitan Police Department Officer [REDACTED]

On January 31, 1973, Special Agents JOSEPH S. GOSSEAUX and ROBERT S. BROWN interviewed ANITA COLLINS at the Washington Field Office, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D.C. (WDC).

ANITA COLLINS was advised of her rights by Special Agent GOSSEAUX and thereafter furnished a Waiver of Rights form to read. After reading said form, she advised she understood her rights and indicated same with the execution of her signature.

She advised that she was present at the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA), Department of Interior, in November, 1972, during the occupation of said building by Indians. She stated, however, that she did not steal any property from this building and that she does not know anyone who did. She further advised that at the present time, she does not know the whereabouts of any of the property stolen from BIA nor does she know in whose possession it might be. She indicated that she did not want to incriminate anyone in particular. She reported that during the occupation and destruction of the BIA Building, she was involved in the negotiations with Government officials. She advised also that the individuals who occupied the BIA Building did not come to WDC with that intention. Rather, she reported, attempts were made to have the District of Columbia Armory made available to them for meetings and accommodations. She advised that the above request was denied and the subsequent occupation of the BIA Building resulted.

In her present capacity, as News Editor for the National American Indian Movement, she is attempting to establish a positive image of Indians in the United States. She advised that the above is a non-salary position. She advised that HANK ADAMS is the National Coordinator of this movement. She advised that she had previously resided with ADAMS at [redacted] WDC, until January 30, 1973, at which time she moved to [redacted] WDC.

ANITA COLLINS was asked by Special Agent BROWN if she knew of any stolen Government property at ADAMS' residence. She stated no to the above question. COLLINS was then asked by Special Agent BROWN if she had observed any boxes in ADAMS' residence which contained BIA property. COLLINS stated that she knew of three boxes there but was unaware of their contents. Without further questioning, she advised, that she [redacted] had picked up three cartons at the Greyhound Bus Terminal, WDC, on January 30, 1973, for HANK ADAMS and transported same to ADAMS' residence. She advised that upon their arrival at ADAMS' residence, he was found to be asleep. She stated that she [redacted] brought the carton boxes into ADAMS' residence and left. She stated she did not know the contents of these boxes. When asked who had mailed the boxes to WDC, she advised, she did not know but that the boxes had come from South Dakota. She was then advised that the contents of these boxes was property belonging to the BIA. She then advised that ADAMS was probably going to turn this property over to the BIA in a show of good faith. She advised that there was to be appropriate news coverage of this which would result in good publicity for the American Indian Movement (AIM). She advised that it was her responsibility to arrange the news coverage regarding the return of these boxes to BIA, however, she had not done this. At this time, Special Agent BROWN advised her that she previously stated that she was unaware of the contents of the cartons and that she had just stated that they planned to give the boxes to the BIA. She was asked that if she was unaware of the contents, why would they be giving them to BIA. COLLINS stated that she did not know why.

ANITA COLLINS was then advised that ADAMS and LESLIE WHITTEN, an associate of Columnist JACK ANDERSON, had removed these boxes from ADAMS' residence and were subsequently observed placing them in WHITTEN's automobile. COLLINS was asked by Special Agent GOSSEAU that if the boxes were for BIA, why were they in the possession of WHITTEN. COLLINS stated that [redacted] was supposed to pick her up at [redacted] and transport her to ADAMS' residence, where he would drive her and HANK ADAMS to the BIA. COLLINS then surmised that WHITTEN, who she stated was a friend of ADAMS, was probably called by him to drive him and the cartons to BIA in place [redacted]. COLLINS further stated that ADAMS and WHITTEN's relationship grew out of WHITTEN's favorable press coverage of the American Indian Movement. Special Agent BROWN then reminded her that she had previously stated that the contents of the boxes were unknown to her and that she had just stated that ADAMS, she and [REDACTED], were to deliver these boxes to BIA this date. She was then asked to clarify this statement and again express her knowledge of the boxes content. COLLINS stated that "she better not answer that question." She was then asked if she knew where any of the other BIA stolen property was located. COLLINS stated she did not know and would not want to know. She was then asked to whom at BIA where the boxes to be returned. COLLINS had no answer for this question.

ANITA COLLINS was then asked if she was familiar with an individual named SARGENT. She replied that she knew a BILL SARGENT in California. She was then asked if SARGENT was an Indian or involved in the AIM. COLLINS did not reply to this question. Special Agent BROWN then advised COLLINS that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is in possession of information regarding a individual named SARGENT in North Carolina, who may be in possession of some of the stolen BIA property. She stated that there is a BILL SARGENT, the same person she knew in California, who is now attempting to establish an AIM Chapter there. She was asked where in North Carolina, to which she replied somewhere in Robeson County. Special Agent BROWN asked COLLINS if she knew the city or nearest town where SARGENT was, to which she replied no. Special Agent BROWN asked if it was a place called Penbrow (phonetic), to which COLLINS replied no, Pexbroke. She further stated that SARGENT was originally from Los Angeles, California, that he was present in the BIA Building during the November, 1972, Indian occupation of this building. She advised SARGENT was not a negotiator and she was not aware of SARGENT's participation during the destruction of the BIA Building. She advised that she does not know SARGENT personally but that he may be a friend of ADAMS.

SA HYTEN stated he had no comment to make. The caller advised he assumed this would be HYTEN's response. He informed SA HYTEN that HYTEN had personally violated the First Amendment to the Constitution, and that HYTEN had sworn to uphold the Constitution and had failed to do so.

ANDERSON stated he wanted HYTEN to know that he, ANDERSON, will have to thoroughly investigate HYTEN's background to find out how a person like HYTEN came to be employed by the FBI.

The caller advised that he had information that HYTEN knew in advance that HANK ADAMS was trying to retrieve the stolen documents from the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) from the various Indian groups for return to the Government. He stated that SA HYTEN ignored the facts that he had and HYTEN is personally responsible for this travesty concerning the arrest of his associate.

At 12:30 p.m., February 3, 1973, columnist JACK ANDERSON and investigating reporter LES WHITTEN appeared on WTOP's (Channel 5) "Panorama" program where they were interviewed by reporters JOHN WILLIS and MAURY POVICH. Following is a transcript of the interview:

Interviewed on 2/3/73 at Washington, D.C. File # WFO 52-14124
by SA's EDWARD R. LEARY and CHARLES W. HARVEY:mjs Date dictated 2/5/73

Willis: Jack Anderson and Les Whitten have made the headlines again and that's not unusual. These two fellows, journalists in Washington and syndicated nationally have an eye for the juggler, but they have an eye for the news. But right now they are in a bit of hot water. As you probably know the story. Less was arrested yesterday. It was yesterday, wasn't it, time passes so quickly.

Whitten: Day before.

Willis: Day before, day before yesterday, with Mr. Adams of the Indian Bureau or not the Indian Bureau, far from it. He is

Whitten: Ah

Willis: What is the official name of that -

Whitten: He was one of the leaders of the Caravan of Broken Treaties.

Willis: American Indian Movement.

Whitten: No, its the survivors - I can't remember, he's ah moderate to militant Indian. He is one of the leaders of the Indian Left, I guess is the best way to describe him.

Willis: All right. The Indian Movement, I guess that the easiest and he did negotiate

Whitten: And the White House Negotiator

Willis: When they took over the Bureau of Indian Affairs

Whitten: Right

Willis: And you say you were arrested for being in possession of stolen documents.

Whitten: That's what the FBI says.

Willis: That's the charge, right. You say you were returning along with Mr. Adams. You were helping him simply return those, arrangements had been made.

Whitten: I was covering the story of Hank taking back the papers to the BIA where they came from, where they were taken back in November.

Willis: Then what I read in the paper, that you said you were helping him was not true, you were just there --

Whitten: I didn't say I was helping him, but I was providing -

Willis: Excuse me, but

Whitten: transportation.

Willis: You were providing --

Whitten: Yeah

Willis: That's a help.

All laugh.

Whitten: I want to try and be absolutely accurate.

Willis: All right Jack, you stated your position on on Metro Media television and other shows across the country. Has in any way that changed in light of what Les says today he is going to produce the name of a person who can collaborate
To a large extent

Anderson: Of course, my position is very simple. Les Whitten is a newspaper reporter and he was covering a news event. He was arrested on the street, his notebook was seized by the FBI. His pen was taken away from him, his ability to cover the news was restricted, he was handcuffed, he was fingerprinted, he was mugged, he was tossed into a lockup in the act of covering the news. Now the Government is trying to assert in this case that it owns the news, that it owns the facts, that it owns the information contained in Government files. The Government cannot conceivably, by the wildest stretch of the imagination prove that Les Whitten had anything whatsoever to do with removing documents from the Bureau of Indian Affairs. They will be unable to prove again by the most, by the wildest stretch that Les Whitten was at any time in control of any of those documents. What we are guilty of and what we freely confess we are guilty of is taking information from those documents and publishing that information.

Willis: Now, now, also were you, excuse me just a second, one, Were you not derelict in your duty as a citizen in not reporting whereabouts of stolen documents?

Anderson: Well, we ah had the whereabouts of the stolen documents shifts from moment to moment. We've been provided with information from these documents by the Indians who stole them. We made it quite clear in our stories that these were stolen documents. We've told how they were stolen. We've described how they were cached around the country, but we at no time had any control over these documents. We simply been writing a story. Now, the Government is trying to claim, the Pentagon Papers Case, too, and this should be interesting to you newsmen, in the Pentagon Papers Case, the Government is also contending that it owns the information in the Pentagon papers.

Willis: That it owns, in other words, the news. Now in this case, it's claiming that the news in those papers belonged to the Government and, so Anderson Whenever we use news that the Government doesn't authorize But that's then, then we are dealing in stolen property.

Povich: I, I don't want to get off the track, we can come back to it. I want to get Les's story here, but the Government has a fairly decent contention in that they owned those documents.

Anderson: There's no question about that. We, we admit that.

Povich: Les, Les, let me get your story as to how you can prove that Adams was on his way to return the documents to the Bureau of Indian Affairs or to the Federal Government.

Whitten: Okay, first of all, let me contradict you, the people own the documents, not the Government.

Povich: Yea, I agree with that too.

Whitten: Okay, Okay, look, I don't want to get in an argument about that, I mean that's my view on it.

Willis: Well yeah.

Whitten: What I want to try and do is make it clear that Hank, my argument rests on the first amendment. I should be able to take those documents, xerox them, write about them, tell the people about them. His rests solely on the merits of the case. Was he headed for the BIA or wasn't he with those documents. Now, the press this morning hinted at what we came up with. They reported that C.R. Anderson, a very reputable man, and the Staff Director of the House Appropriations Investigating Committee had confirmed that his staffer, Dennis Creedon, had an appointment with Hank Adams at 10:00 a.m. on the morning that we were arrested. The reason that is important is because Dennis Creedon ah, works at the BIA. There he is investigating Indians' complaints against the BIA and his office is at the BIA, the target for the papers that morning. Now what the "Post" did not say and I think their story was quite balanced, what they may not have known was what we were able to confirm this morning. That, and this is from again, Mr. C. R. Anderson speaking for Mr. Creedon. Mr. Anderson prefers for the statements to go through him rather than through

Willis: He is Creedon's boss?

Whitten: Yeah, he's Creedon's boss.

Willis: Right.

Whitten: And Creedon is a staffer, an investigator for that that committee. And he told me this morning ah that Hank at about 9:45 a.m., that's 25 minutes before approximately 25 to 30 minutes before we were arrested had called him and said that he was late, that he had overslept and he was on the way down there. He was on the way down there right now. I was there myself when, I heard Hank's side of the call which he said yeah, I'll be there in 10 or 30 minutes, but this is the call from the other side of the case, that Creedon has acknowledged through his boss that Hank had called him at 9:45 a.m..

Willis: So you say because of the intention of Adams to return the documents he is not guilty of

Whitten: Yeah

Willis: Possession of the legal documents.

Whitten: Yeah, moreover, that, let me point out that Creedon, Hank did not tell Creedon he was bringing the documents with him, he simply said he was going down there so in fairness to Creedon, he didn't know he was going to get the documents, but he was at BIA and Hank called him there and said I'm on the way down. So, that's the first thing. When we got up there and Hank was preparing to go with me covering the story along with him, the FBI arrested us. If they'd waited 20 minutes they could have gotten the documents from the BIA. Now that's the first point of evidence on Hank's desire to turn the documents back, and to me that's the most important, because there's that, that marvelous element of timeliness. He calls on the phone to say we're on the way, and there it is, I mean, you know, you know yourself how long it takes from Rhode Island Avenue to BIA. It takes just the time that Hank said, about 15 minutes and you can't stop off and xerox three cartons of papers in 15 minutes. Now, the second point is, another marvelously brave guy, because he's still in the Federal Bureaucracy, but he is a veteran PR man, an Indian himself, and a very brave man and I like to say that it takes a lot of guts to do what Tom Oxindine did this morning. Tom is a BI Official, a Government employee, and he confirmed at my request, he didn't volunteer, I asked him, because _____ that this was the case. He confirmed that last week Hank Adams told him that he was hoping that the documents would be back by February 10, or the middle of February. In other words, when the FBI arrested Hank, he had already informed Tom Oxindine that the documents, he hoped were going to be back by February 10. Tom had asked him that when he was at the BIA, when Hank had come in because Hank was worried about getting the documents reduplicated and reconstructed and he wanted to know if he had to go ahead and get the files reconstructed. What he asked Hank, the reason he asked Hank was to make sure that if there was any possible way they would be coming back that they would be back and avoid the problems of duplication. So he said, Hank said to him, as Tom told me this morning, that ah that's, that's what he, Hank, had been told, that's the plan and it is in the process of happening. It is in the process of happening is what Hank told Tom Oxindine about the return of the documents. Point three and again I hope that nothing happens to Tom. He authorized me to use his name a little reluctantly, but he did give me permission and it would be just dreadful if a guy with guts get kicked out for standing up. Ah, on the third thing, Hank tells me that on January 11, at the National Press Club, I wish I'd been there in the Capitol Room, that he also stated that he was trying to get the documents back. He believes that by ah, and I haven't had a chance to check it out, but ABC actually recorded that Press Conference and I was in the process, that's why I'm a little disheveled looking. I was trying to confirm that when I came up here.

Willis: Okay.

Whitten: One last point, on January 1, on the Congressional Quarterly ah, ah editorial research request which is sort of a editor's service, for, you probably know about it yourself, Mike, ah telling what's coming up, on that day they moved a notification that Hank's organization, ah the Survival of American Indians Association, was hoping to get the documents returned on or by Saturday, the 10th or ah thereabouts. Now, this to me is evidence that ah this is what I been able to prove so far, I, we're working on another angle that the White House, through an important and I think honest person there would acknowledge it was informed that the documents were headed back ah and was asked ah how to get them back.

Willis: How long did you know the documents were in Mr. Adams possession?

Whitten: Ah, about maybe somewhere in the vicinity, less than 24 hours.

Willis: Isn't the press right now facing the, they have been in court and also in the court of public opinion. Jack, I'll ask you this, where does the role of the reporter and the citizen split?

Anderson: Well, the reporter has ah, ah function under the constitution and the constitution grants freedom of the press and those who wrote the Constitution made it clear in their statements that this meant that the press should serve the people and not the Government. That the press should be a watchdog on the people, so we ah we have to perform the function of a watchdog and in order to do that, we have to dig out the facts which the Government doesn't want us to dig out. We have to report to the people on how their managers are managing their affairs.

Willis: True, but even if it means the breaking of the law.

Anderson: Well, no one, of course, has broken any laws here, not, no reporters have broken any laws here. Ah Les Whitten said, the law, the law frankly, the Constitution was violated John, by the FBI

Whitten: That's right -

Anderson: You see, here you have FBI Agents you had Dennis Hyten the FBI Agent in charge of this peculiar caper, this strange business. It was Dennis Hyten, an FBI Agent sworn to uphold the Constitution deliberately and outrageously violating the Constitutional rights of a newspaper reporter. Now let me tell you how he violated it. First, there is a setup. The FBI had

The FBI had an informant inside the organization. That informant had to have known what you have just been told. Had to have known that here was Hank Adams trying to get these documents to return them and, in fact, Hank Adams had already been in touch with Dennis Hyten and had actually returned some property that had come out Povich: You say he had already been in touch with the FBI?

Anderson: Yeah,

Yeah, we have a copy, a receipt

Anderson: Got a receipt from Dennis Hyten, he had already been returning the material that had been taken out of the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Hank Adams did not believe in stealing. He wanted to return it. He was the negotiator to return it. Now, the FBI knew this and knowing this, they waited because they got advised that either myself or Les Whitten would be down there to ah cover this event and to be in touch with them. They waited until that moment

Willis: Well, you've got

Anderson: Then they moved in and they moved at, they didn't wait

Povich: You've got to furnish me a name, Jack, because you're talking about in effect a conspiracy within the Justice Department.

Anderson: We, we'll prove it, ah

WFO 52-14124

Povich: All right, what,

Anderson: The name

Povich: Anderson for?

Povich: No, I don't mean that, but you got to tell me who wants you that badly that they would set up this kind of an arrest.

Anderson: I don't think it's just me, I think it's just that the Government is now determined to ah prove that it owns information and we have been printing information from off of these stolen documents. We made no bones about that. We have described the documents as stolen. But, we don't believe that the news belongs to the Government. We believe that it belongs to the people.

Povich: You have no responsibility in helping those documents getting back to the Federal Government?

Whitten: _____ going back in my Vega.

Laugh

Willis: At every time I'll ask Les, you were working on the story, you looked at the documents. Didn't you _____ to return it?

Whitten: I didn't have a chance to look but at about a half a book, but one of the documents that they're making a big fuss about is a volume of the U.S. Code. But I got the chance to look at very few of those documents took Hank's word that they should go back there.

Willis: What about previous documents?

Whitten: Wait a minute, let me finish with this first. That, that they should go back there and then we could start getting the things back there and were about to put them in the car when they arrested Hank and me.

Anderson: Now, now, clearly if I can interrupt, obviously if they really thought they had a case, that they really thought that they could catch Les Whitten with the documents in his possession, obviously they would have followed him and waited until he put them in his house or brought them to my office, but they knew, they had to know because they had an informant. They had to know that they were on the way to the Bureau of Indian Affairs so they arrested them.

Povich: Jack, in the street before they left instead of following to see --

Willis: We'll pick up right there, we got to pause just briefly. Our guests Les Whitten, and Jack Anderson:

Advertisement

Willis: This is Panorama, our guests Jack Anderson and Les Whitten. We're talking about the Indian papers. That's the latest thing. Ah, let me ask you this, Les, do you know where those papers came from originally?

Whitten: I'm not sure, and that's an honest answer. I have my guesses on it, but I don't want to guess on the air and to tell you the truth, if I did know, I wouldn't tell you because if there is one thing we have to keep, as you know, and both of you guys in a pretty tight business yourself, its, ah, it you can't talk about your sources. And, I wouldn't tell you if I did know.

Willis: Well, well, let me talk, and I know Jack would love to jump in here, ah, let's talk of a, a conspiracy within the Administration, and is there a connection between Les Whitten and William Farar, and the fellow up in New Jersey and the Pentagon papers.

Whitten: And the Washington Post License Case down in Jacksonville.

Willis: Yeah, and the License Case in Jacksonville, and the Anderson: All we can say is that if there isn't a connection the coincidences are amazing. I have never known reporters to be thrown in jail in such wholesale numbers in the history of the United States. Not since the 1700's when Peter's _____ was thrown Povich: Why, why would they want, what makes this Administration any different than any of the previous? All have tried to manage the news, all have tried in their own way. Why such a bold approach as this?

Anderson: Well, now, that's something that I can't tell you, except that I know Richard Nixon and his personality and he's, he's kind of an orderly and methodical and deliberate person when he goes about something, he goes about it in a very orderly way. Ah, what has happened in these cases has been ah nearly as I can determine, preplanned and ah, ah pretty much on schedule. You see the Nixon Administration first kept appealing the ah, ah the Caldwell Case. I don't want to get too technical

Willis: No

Anderson: But Ned Caldwell was a black reporter for the New York Times who had gotten information from inside the Black Panthers and a District Attorney, or U.S. Attorney thought now that information would be very helpful in making my case against the Black Panthers. Ed Caldwell said if I give you information from inside the Black Panthers, I'll never get any more. My obligation is to the public to find out what the Black Panthers are doing. I can't jeopardize that just to help you make one single case. So, in the lower Courts ah the Courts ruled in favor of Caldwell in favor of the Press.

Willis: So what you're saying

Anderson: _____ Administration kept appealing it up until they got to the Supreme Court.

Polvich: So what really you're looking for is a dismissal.

An absolute dismissal of charges against Les.

Anderson: No, no, I would go further than that, I, I think that we cannot tolerate the, in ah, in ah police force mentality that we have found in this Dennis Hyten ah, who has, who with fore knowledge tried to interfere with Les Whitten in the act of covering a story. Now the Supreme Court has already ruled that you cannot block a newspaper man from printing a story. That, that, the Supreme Court has already ruled on that. Now he was blocked, his notebook was taken away, his pen was taken away, he was stopped from writing a story. by the, we were going to write it that day and he was stopped. That's prior restraint. That's a violation of the Constitution, the Supreme Court has upheld it and this man, Dennis Hyten, who engineered this whole think, a man with that mentality, ought not to be in ah, in ah Government

Willis: What, what

Anderson: Police Agency. , so we're not only going to ask for dismissal of the charges, we're going to ask for dismissal of Hyten.

Willis: Well, well wait a minute, Jack. I understand what you are saying, but really, that pen and the paper, you know, a fellow could be holding up the bank with a pen and a paper, and say I am a reporter.

Whitten: The first amendment, doesn't Anderson: They called him by name. They knew who he was.

Whitten: They knew me. And the first amendment doesn't protect bank robbers. It does protect reporters.

Anderson: It does protect reporters.

Whitten: And if it means anything, it means that not just for me.

Willis: Even if they are involved in something illegal?

Whitten: Yeah.

Whitten: The people that called and said, gee, this is grim were the investigative reporters of Washington. We know that it is going to happen to us, and if they put me away, well, may be not much of an outcry, but they are going to put somebody and somebody else away.

The first amendment doesn't protect

Anderson: Let me, let me make this clear, Les.

Whitten: Yeah.

Anderson: Let me make this clear. If Les Whitten had never written anything critical about the Government, if these papers, in fact, stolen papers had contained praise worthy information about the Government, and we had taken from these papers stories praising the Government and its handling of Indian Affairs, and that this is what the papers had shown and we had written a story saying that the Government has done a great job in Indian Affairs, if we had done that story, Les Whitten would never had gone to jail and you know that.

Willis: Yes, but what I'm trying to get at, I know, I know what you're saying and ah, Whitten: I don't think the argument is over that point.

Willis: It's what you're going to face in Court. Do you think they have enough of a case to make it stand up?

Whitten: I don't think so, do you?

Anderson: Well, of course not.

Willis: Well, I've just repeated what I thought is going to be made --

Anderson: Have you had any indication since the arrest and since you and since the eight hours. See, they spent eight hours by the way

Whitten: Yeah, because the rest of that time, I was eight hours in custody and I was in the lockup approximately five hours and twenty-five minutes.

Are the D.C. cell blocks any better than when we used to cover the District Court.

Laugh

Whitten: Actually the D.C., the guards are very nice down there in the Court House Cell Block. But, the cell block itself is worse than an ordinary jail, cause there's no drinking water down there. One of the poor guys that was with me in the cell block said that he hadn't had any water since 3:00 a.m., and I asked twice, just as sort of a test case and all of those fellows very nice and they wouldn't give me any.

Povich: What, what, have you been given any indication that, that they realize that maybe they did something wrong. Are they lightening up at all.

Whitten: Well, we were going to use something like that in our column. But the answer

Povich: Well, come on now.

Inaudible

Whitten: We have it from ah inside the administration that they felt that might have done things a little more differently. A little differently now that the

Willis: The case might, might be a little shaky

Povich: Do you think, put it to you this way, would Hank Adams have been arrested if he was by himself and not with you?

Anderson: I, I just don't see how he could have been. You see, Hank Adams ah had been negotiating with the Government for months to return the documents. He told everybody, from the White House down that he was trying to get the documents back. Ah, Hank Adams, in fairness believed that the Indians had the right to the information in the documents. Hank Adams even believed that ah stealing the Indians' water rights, stealing their timber, stealing their mineral, all thefts, outright thefts, by the Government which are proved in these papers. Hank Adams felt that the stealing of the water rights, and the timber and the minerals is worse than stealing the documents. Nevertheless, Hank Adams was still trying to get the documents back and he had told us that from the beginning. We actually printed it when we first began publishing the documents. We, we, at their request, ran a note which they wanted the President to have, a message to the President, saying that the Indians intended to return the documents but they wanted to examine them first. In other words they felt that as we do, that they had the right to the information in the documents if not the actual papers themselves.

Willis: Jack, you used the word, negotiate a couple of times. What were they negotiating?

Anderson: They were negotiating for the return of everything stolen from the Willis: What did they want in return?

Anderson: Ah, nothing, ah the Indians were, the Indians were at fault

Whitten: Not true, they wanted,

Whitten: They would like to have opened the talks with the White House if the White House was willing, but on these three cartons there was no condition

Anderson: No conditions that I know of Whitten: This is the biggest batch that they would ever have gotten back and were no conditions and what this means is that maybe other Indians will be reluctant to turn them in Anderson: Now, now here is the man who was going to return these documents. All the Indians knew that was what he was doing. He was negotiating to return the documents to the Government, now no one is going to return any more documents.

Whitten: _____ said

Anderson: They are going to be afraid. They're going to figure they're going to get arrested on the way to the BIA.

Whitten: _____ whose really a great guy and a good writer and well known to the Administration too, he said that everybody knew that the best way to get documents back is through Hank. That if that was the way it was to be done, that throughout the Indian Community that was known. I think it is going to make it difficult for those folks unless the Administration says honest to gosh, get the documents back and --

Willis: Seem a simpler way wouldn't it?

Whitten: Seems to me like it would be.

Willis: You going to start bonding your reporters Jack, I mean this is getting to be ridiculous.

Anderson: Well, we this, you know the, the Administration doesn't own the Government. We still have recourse to the Courts. We're, we're going to use that. We're going Willis: February 13 you go before the Magistrate, right?

Whitten: 15th

Willis: 15th

Willis: What do you do at that time?

Whitten: I don't know. Guess whatever the lawyers say.

Povich: Do you expect dismissal at that time?

Whitten: If there is any justice there would be. But I'm not, I don't know what they'll do. If they, guess if they want to get us bad enough, they won't dismiss it.

Willis: Has Adams indicated what he's going to do?

Whitten: I know that he is going to fight it and I know that I'm going to fight it cause I know that I'm right. Both on the first amendment and the merits and Hank doesn't have the first amendment, although he might.

Willis: Who will be representing you?

Whitten: Well, Betty, Murphy and Warren, I guess, our lawyers.

Anderson: We'll be represented.

Willis: Have you asked the ACLU to come in?

Whitten: Oh no, they

Anderson: Well, the committee for

Whitten: Reporter's Committee for Freedom of the Press is wonderful

Whitten: They should come in on it. Yeah, and they've kicked in $500 to help to pay for the typing of Anderson: These are just everyday Joe's who work on newspapers who have thrown together a committee and they want to help us.

Povich: Do you think your witnesses will stand up?

Whitten: Yes, absolutely. I know it because C. R. Anderson is an honest man. I talked to him this morning. He isn't going to back down. And Tom Oxindine is a brave guy and he'll stand up.

Willis: Les Whitten, Jack Anderson, thank you very much for joining us today on Panorama and ah sorting through all this. We wish you good luck.

Whitten: Thanks. Laugh

under arrest as he was loading one of three boxes containing stolen government documents into his private vehicle. Subject ADAMS, who was helping WHITTEN with the boxes, was arrested at the same time. Shortly thereafter, ALISON GRACE CERRI and DANIEL JAMES PIGEON were arrested in ADAMS' Washington, D.C. apartment and ANITA COLLINS was arrested at another Washington, D.C. address. All were charged with Violation Title 18, Section 641 (Theft and Possession of Stolen Government Property). Charges were dropped against CERRI and PIGEON at appearance before U.S. Magistrate, Washington, D.C., on 1/31/73, and subjects WHITTEN and ADAMS were released on personal recognizance. Subject COLLINS was released on unsecured $1,000 bond.

In press accounts, WHITTEN claims he was taking possession of the 3 boxes of stolen documents to return same to government. Subject ADAMS claims that the services of WHITTEN were being utilized because he (ADAMS) had no other source of transportation. ADAMS also claims in press accounts that the boxes had been addressed to him by undisclosed persons. Upon seizure of the boxes, each bore the name of WFO case agent which had been written thereon by WHITTEN and/or ADAMS. However, an undercover police officer had been closely associated with subjects preceeding their arrest and had advised that subjects formulated the cover story concerning return of the documents to the government in the event they were arrested while transporting the boxes.

Concerning ADAMS' contention that he received the boxes from undisclosed persons, investigation at the Washington, D.C. Greyhound bus terminal has disclosed that the 3 boxes were shipped to ADAMS by one SINTEGLESKA, College Cinter, Rosebud, South Dakota, as reflected on enclosed bus bill. Investigation has disclosed the shipment arrived in Washington, D.C., on 1/29/73, and was picked up and signed for by ANITA COLLINS on 1/30/73, who was driven to the Washington, D.C. Greyhound terminal by the undercover officer.

In connection with the FBI arrest January 31, 1973, of Les Whitten, associate of columnist Jack Anderson; Hank Adams, known Indian leader; and Anita Collins, an associate of Adams, for possession of stolen Government documents taken from the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C., in November, 1972, an earlier memorandum today indicated that the United States Attorney's Office was presenting this matter to the grand jury today.

SAC John McDermott advised that the Assistant United States Attorney handling the presentation to the Federal grand jury desired Dennis Creedon of the House Appropriations Investigative Staff (an FBI Agent) to testify this afternoon before the grand jury. Creedon had an appointment to talk to Hank Adams on the morning of the arrest in connection with a study Creedon was conducting for the House Appropriations Committee. Creedon had called Adams on the afternoon of January 30, 1973, setting up the appointment. The Assistant U. S. Attorney wanted Creedon this afternoon in order to avoid any charge of collusion.

Cornelius Anderson (FBI Agent), Director of Investigations and Surveys, House Appropriations Committee, was telephonically advised of the desire of the Assistant U. S. Attorney to have Creedon testify this afternoon. Anderson stated he had just hung up and Creedon advised that he was on his way to testify before the grand jury, that he had already been informed that the Assistant U. S. Attorney wanted him this afternoon.

Anderson stated that Creedon was conducting a study concerning the validity of the claims of the Indian groups. He had been in touch with Hank Adams and no mention was made of any documents. Anderson stated that he had been contacted by numerous members of the press and the House Appropriations Committee felt that the press should be advised of the study by House Appropriations Committee into the validity of the Indians' claims. Anderson stated the Committee had no interest in stolen Government documents.

This is to advise of the television appearance of Les Whitten (aide to columnist Jack Anderson) who was arrested by FBI Agents 1/31/73 in connection with stolen Government documents taken from the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Building when "sacked" early November, 1972. Subject Adams, a known Indian leader, and Adams' associate, Collins, were arrested on the same date on the same charges.

Today on Channel 5 television program "Panorama," Les Whitten and Jack Anderson were interviewed by TV reporters Maury Povich, Jr., and John Willis. The entire format of the approximately twenty-minute appearance was designed to allow Whitten and Anderson to recite their version of their attempt to return the documents to the BIA. Anderson and Whitten maintained complete innocence and even chastized Special Agent Dennis Hyten, case Agent in the Washington Field Office, who, according to Anderson, engineered the arrest of Whitten in violation of the First Amendment, fully knowing that Hank Adams had intended to return these documents to the BIA.

Both Anderson and Whitten relied heavily upon statements from SA C. R. Anderson and SA Dennis Creedon (both on loan to the House Appropriations Committee) who recognized that Creedon had called Adams to make an appointment; however, both Whitten and Anderson, in fairness to Creedon, claimed Creedon had no knowledge the documents were to be returned by Adams that morning. Anderson indicated the FBI, if it waited just twenty more minutes, would have seen the documents carried directly to the BIA Building.

Another alleged witness for Whitten was Tom Oxondine, a Bureau of Indian Affairs employee who confirmed that Hank Adams had informed him that the documents would be returned by February 10 or the middle of February. There was no indication from Anderson or Whitten that they knew the House Committee Investigators, namely, SA Anderson and SA Creedon, were in reality FBI Agents on loan to the House Committee.

Re: LESLIE H. WHITTEN

Other than their version of their attempt to return the documents, Anderson and Whitten took up the cause of "Freedom of the Press" and the issues surrounding the right of reporters to dig into facts even those embarrassing to the Government in order to keep the public informed.

Jan Subjects Leslie Hunter Whitten, Jr., and Henry Lyle Adams, following arrest on 1/31/73 for possession of stolen Government documents (taken from Bureau of Indian Affairs during demonstration) alleged they were returning the documents to the Government when arrested. They seized upon prearranged interview scheduled for that morning with Dennis F. Creedon, Jr. investigator, Surveys and Investigations Staff, House Appropriations Committee (FBI Special Agent on temporary assignment) to show their intentions of returning the documents to the Government. Concerning this matter, Mr. Gray commented, "This is a clear indication--based on a chance happening--that we ought to review our liaison with this Committee and request that they always check with us re ongoing investigations to make certain that neither one jeopardizes the investigations of the other in appropriate circumstances."

The purpose of this memo is to advise that we have strengthened our existing liaison with the Investigative Staff of the House Appropriations Committee through informal discussion with the Staff Director, Cornelius R. Anderson, to make certain that neither one jeopardizes the investigations of the other in appropriate circumstances.

As you are aware, Cornelius R. Anderson, referred to above, was removed from the rolls of the FBI to serve with the above Staff 5/1/68. He is due to return to the rolls of the FBI 5/1/73, at which time Leroy R. Kirkpatrick, his First Assistant (also a former Special Agent removed from the rolls), will take over the Directorship. Both Anderson and Kirkpatrick are keenly aware of the Bureau's interests and jurisdiction and without violating any confidence or trust have been very cooperative with the Bureau in matters of mutual interest. Concerning the current investigation involving the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Mr. Anderson contacted the Administrative Division as soon as his Staff received a directive to look into the events surrounding the seizure of the Bureau of Indian Affairs building and to determine among other things what legal action was being taken by the Government concerning the seizure. Since compliance with Mr. Anderson's request would require furnishing information from our files it was recommended and approved by Mr. Gray that he direct his request to the Department. Memo attached. Thereafter, Mr. Anderson sent a letter to the Department dated 1/23/73 (copy attached) furnishing a copy to the Administrative Division which, in turn, was forwarded to the General Investigative and the Domestic Intelligence Divisions because of their interest in this investigation. The Department is considering this request; however, no instructions have been given to the Bureau up to now.

Agree!
We have not had any difficulty in our liaison with the various Directors of the Surveys and Investigations Staff, House Appropriations Committee. It is believed that any formal agreement would be subject to misinterpretation; however, an informal understanding would place both Mr. Anderson and the Bureau in a position of controlling a given situation and reduce the possibility of unfounded charges of FBI interference with the free exercise of Congressional investigative powers. Mr. Anderson and his administrative assistants having been employed by the Bureau for a number of years are in a good position to realize what investigative matters assigned to them would in all probability be under consideration by the Bureau as well.

ILLEGAL POSSESSION OF

In connection with the FBI arrest of Whitten, an associate of columnist Jack Anderson, former FBI Assistant Director Robert Wick, currently in the Public Relations Department of Pan American World Airways, on February 1, 1973, telephonically advised FBI Headquarters of his favorable association with Whitten. According to Wick, Whitten in the past furnished information to the FBI and was of great assistance in utilization of information furnished him for the betterment of this Bureau. Wick continued he has always known Whitten to be most honorable, well respected, and completely honest. He described Whitten as being very intelligent and a person who furnishes advice to columnist Anderson rather than one who receives direction from Anderson.

In connection with Whitten's arrest, Wick advised he had talked with Whitten earlier on February 1, 1973, at which time Whitten said that apparently the FBI did not believe Whitten when Whitten told the Agents he intended to return the documents to the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA). Whitten said he received a call from Hank Adams (who was arrested with Whitten) and Adams explained he wanted to return the documents to the BIA but did not have transportation. Whitten reportedly told Adams that he would like to look at the documents for a scoop before they were returned, and that Whitten would provide the transportation. Adams agreed to this and Whitten had observed the documents and was in the process of returning them when arrested. Wick believed that Whitten was telling the truth and felt these observations should be passed on to the FBI.

At 4:30 p. m., 2/1/73, former Assistant Director Robert Wick, currently in the Public Relations Department of Pan Am, called in connection with the arrest of Les Whitten, an associate of columnist Jack Anderson. Wick advised he has known Whitten since 1953 when Whitten was a reporter on the Washington Post. In his association, Whitten has been of great assistance to the FBI in furnishing information and utilizing information furnished to him to the betterment of the Bureau. Wick said in his association with Whitten he has always known him to be a most honorable man, well respected and completely honest above-board. He said Whitten is a very intelligent man and usually tells Anderson what to do rather than the reverse.

In connection with the current situation, Wick said he talked to Whitten this morning and he told Wick that the FBI apparently did not believe him when he told them he intended to return the documents to the Bureau of Indian Affairs. He told Wick that he had received a call from Adams and Adams explained he wanted to return the documents to BIA but did not have transportation. Whitten told Adams that if he supplied the transportation he would like to look at the documents so that he could get a scoop before the documents were returned. According to Wick, Whitten advised that Adams agreed to this, that he had observed the documents and that they were in the process of returning them to the Government when they were arrested.

THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD
FEBRUARY 7, 1973

HOUSE

Pages H855-H857. Congressman Frank Horton (R-New York) spoke concerning a bill he introduced (H. R. 3995) to limit the sale or distribution of mailing lists by Federal agencies. He advised that "If enacted, this legislation would in no way prevent legitimate access to agency information. It would, however, protect the privacy and safety of individuals whose names and addresses appear on Federal mailing lists." Mr. Horton pointed out that last year the House Foreign Operations and Government Information Subcommittee held hearings on the administration of the Freedom of Information Act and the "mailing list bill" was reviewed in the course of these hearings. Mr. Horton placed in the Record his testimony before the subcommittee in support of similar legislation he introduced last Congress. In this statement, Mr. Horton commented on the categories of information that are "processed and stored subject to retrieval" and included the following: "5. Seven computerized data banks maintained by the Justice Department pertaining to the (a) FBI's National Crime Information Center, (b) Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs' files on narcotics users, (c) FBI's Known Professional Check Passers' file, - - - - 14. FBI, CIA, and Military Intelligence and security files."

Adjournment: Until Thursday, February 8, 1973, at 12 noon.

SENATE

Pages S2292-S2295. Senator Frank E. Moss (D-Utah) spoke concerning freedom of the press and stated, "Once again the administration has seized an available opportunity to strike a blow for coverup and bureaucratic malingering." He made reference to the arrest of columnist Jack Anderson's assistant, Lee Whitten. Mr. Moss continued, "Whitten was arrested last Wednesday for receiving and processing documents stolen from the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Note that Mr. Whitten was not charged with violating security regulations. It is not possession of the information contained in the documents which constitutes the crime, but the violation of the Government's property rights in the paper. seeks to protect itself from criticism by claiming its property rights in paper, - - - - . As Nicholas von Hoffman correctly noted in the Washington Post: "These papers have no monetary value, their only value is as evidence of improper or possible illegal conduct by the government officials who caused Lee to be arrested." Mr. Moss placed in the Record four earlier statements he made on the "administration's dogged pursuit of the scalps of those who honor the first amendment." He also included the von Hoffman article. Mr. von Hoffman comments on the arrest of Lee Whitten by the FBI. He stated, "It doesn't cost L. Patrick Gray and his transom peepers a thing. It's safe and it's fun busting a law-abiding guy like Whitten. Putting the cuffs on him isn't like tracking down and catching guys who put two bullets in John Stennis. That takes a little more, so in the meanwhile, if the streets get more and more dangerous and what you read in the papers safer and safer, you know why."

Pages S2308-S2314. Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minnesota) placed in the Record a series of six articles written by Albert A. Eisele and published in the St. Paul Pioneer Press on the subject of freedom of the press. Mr. Humphrey pointed out that "Mr. Eisele tells us more than it is comfortable to know at one time about the diversity and intensity of the current attacks on our first amendment freedoms." The first article made reference to the FBI in connection with the arrest of Lee Whitten. Part III of the series stated, "when McGovern's popularity was still climbing late last spring, the administration launched a new series of well-coordinated attacks on the press. Some of these attacks recently were catalogued by Courtney Sheldon, Washington bureau chief of the Christian Science Monitor and chairman of the Associated Press managing editors' Washington committee. They included: --A speech in April by Assistant Attorney General Patrick Gray--named Acting Director of the FBI a few days later--charging that newspaper and television reporting is 'often inaccurate, biased and grossly unfair' as well as slanted against the administration; - - - - ."

Pages S2317-S2337. The Senate agreed to S. Res. 60, to establish a Select Committee to Investigate 1972 Presidential Campaign Activities. Senator Hugh Scott (R-Pennsylvania) discusses the membership of this committee indicating he felt the minority should have an equal voice in the committee. He stated, "What does this resolution do? It is the broadest resolution ever introduced in the Senate, in my recollection. The chairman is empowered with greater authority and greater powers than we have ever given to any chairman. I must say that I cannot imagine a Senator better qualified or better equipped to wield these massive powers than the distinguished senior Senator from North Carolina, - - - - . But this resolution is limited to a single occurrence because the majority view here is that they do not wish to know of anything else. - - - - Moreover, in section 3, subsection (11) of this resolution are the widest possible powers to send a herd of officials amongst the executive department--if I can paraphrase the Declaration of Independence a little--to send a group of staff members, because the committee would be too busy to do all this itself to look into all the raw files of the Government, to look into the FBI files, without waiting until they have been evaluated or determined as to any conclusions found, to look at every rumor made against any person, be he innocent or guilty. - - - This is a power never before given to anyone in the history of our Constitution. It is a power which is more subject to abuse than any other power of which I can think. It is wild, it is unbelievable, that this power is written into this section." Senator Robert P. Griffin (R-Michigan) offered an amendment, which was adopted, limiting to the chief majority counsel, minority counsel, or any of its investigatory assistants jointly designated by the chairman and ranking minority members, persons who may have access to data or information in the custody of Executive departments or agencies. Mr. Griffin, in explaining his amendment, stated, "The FBI, as we know, takes statements from anyone who will make a statement. FBI files should be reviewed only by those who will exercise a high degree of responsibility."

Pages S2337-S2340. Senator Vance Hartke (D-Indiana) spoke concerning antihijacking regulations of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). He indicated he felt these regulations constitute "a serious invasion of civil rights, and an unconstitutional encroachment of the Executive upon the legislative functions of Government; and I believe evidence will show that the FAA regulations do not, cannot, and will not work." Mr. Hartke placed in the Record an article from the February 4 Washington Star regarding a statement he submitted listing charges against FAA operations and policies. Senator Marlow W. Cook (R-Kentucky) took issue with Senator Hartke and stated, "I have always felt that if we are going to be the people to enact the laws, if we are going to be the people who are going to extend the authority of an agency of the Federal Government to enact legislation, then, heaven forbid, what the Senate would be like if we were the first ones to decide not to obey the rules and regulations we had put into force and effect."

Page S2345. The Senate agreed to H. Con. Res. 105, providing for adjournment of the House for the Lincoln Day Recess, after agreeing to an amendment to provide for adjournment of the Senate from Thursday, February 8 until Thursday, February 15.

Adjournment: Until Thursday, February 8, 1973, at 9:30 a.m.

Memorandum to Mr. Kinley
Re: The Congressional Record

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

Page E717. Congressman Paul M. McCloskey, Jr., (R-California) extended his remarks concerning freedom of the press. He comments on the theft of documents from the Bureau of Indian Affairs Office in November and makes reference to the arrest of Les Whitten. Mr. McCloskey stated, "One Indian leader, Hank Adams, sought the return of the stolen papers, and on December 11 was successful in getting back from his associates some of the stolen property which he turned over to FBI Special Agent Dennis Hyten. On January 30, Adams received three additional boxes of documents. He had an appointment the following morning with a congressional investigator working at BIA and planned to present the documents to the investigator for delivery on the Hyten. Adams permitted Anderson's top investigator, Les Whitten, to accompany him, - - - - . As Adams and Whitten were carrying the boxes, addressed to Agent Hyten, to Whitten's car, FBI agents arrested them. - - - - To my knowledge, this is the first time a reporter has been charged with a crime for possessing or looking at Government documents admittedly taken by someone else. - - - - the case is particularly unusual in that Agent Hyten, to whom the boxes were addressed and who had previously accepted similarly stolen property from Adams, knew Whitten and Adams were in the process of returning the documents at the time they were arrested when he signed the complaint."

Pages E722-E725. Congressman William Lehman (D-Florida) extended his remarks in support of the Select Committee on Crime and advised he was shocked to read of efforts underway to end the work of this committee. He included several news items with his remarks. This material included an article by Jack Anderson entitled "Pepper's Crime Committee Faces Ax From Opponents" in which Anderson stated, "The White House is also unhappy with the Pepper unit. - - - - Shortly after it was set up, John Dean III, then a top Justice Department aide and now a Presidential counsel, was dispatched to see what the committee was up to. His negative report caused Justice to refuse to cooperate fully with Pepper. In fact, Justice denied Pepper the names of the 10 top heroin financiers even though their identities were known to Justice."

Pages E726-E728. Congressman Edward I. Koch (D-New York) stated "on October 27, 1972, Acting Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Mr. L. Patrick Gray III, announced the termination of an FBI program, in operation since 1950, of collecting data on major nonincumbent congressional candidates. Until that October announcement, there had, to my knowledge, been no official indication over the past 22 years that such a program existed. In order to clarify the nature of this information gathering program, I wrote, along with my colleagues Benjamin Rosenthal and Jonathan Bingham, to Acting Director Gray, requesting that the FBI allow us to examine whatever respective files it may have collected on us. After several months of correspondence we were informed finally that, even though such a data collection program had already been terminated, the information in our files 'is not available for inspection, except for authorized purposes and then only on a need-to-know basis.' The FBI had apparently decided that Members of Congress do not 'need to know.'" Mr. Koch pointed out that he had introduced legislation in previous Congresses and in the present Congress to apprise a citizen of what information has been collected on him by Government agencies. He continued, "Because my correspondence with the FBI is so illustrative of the difficulty--indeed the impossibility--of an individual ascertaining the contents of his file, I am setting it forth for the interest of our colleagues in Congress and the citizens of this country, with the hope that Congress will promptly enact the essential safeguards to personal privacy as are embodied in my bill." The above-mentioned correspondence is set forth in the Record.

My memo of 2/7/73, which is attached, advised of contact by the Staff Director, Cornelius R. Anderson, Investigative Staff, House Appropriations Committee, and Assistant Attorney General McKeivitt regarding request of HAC for information relative to the results of the FBI investigation of the Indian Affairs matter. Mr. Anderson telephoned late yesterday afternoon to advise that he had touched base with Congresswoman Julia B. Hansen, Chairman of the Interior Subcommittee of HAC. Later the same day, there had been some discussion with Chairman Mahon, as a result of which it had been decided that the letter from Chairman Mahon to the Attorney General would simply ask to be advised of legal action taken to date by the Federal Government in the Indian Affairs matter. Further, it had been decided that the Investigative Staff would not be contacting members of dissent groups. In discussions with Congresswoman Hansen, the point was specifically covered with her that the Investigative Staff would not be interviewing Henry Lyle Adams and she agreed with this procedure.

Mr. Anderson mentioned that SA Dennis F. Creedon, who is on loan to the Investigative Staff, had received a telephone call from Bob Wick, former Assistant Director of the FBI and now with Pan American Airlines. According to Anderson, Wick told Creedon that he considers Les Whitten to be "an honorable guy" and thought it was an injustice to arrest Whitten. Wick thought it would have been better to have called Whitten as Whitten, according to Wick, had been cooperative with the FBI in the past. Wick further commented that he thought Whitten would be interested in talking with the FBI as no one seems to believe his story.

RECOMMENDATION:

None. Submitted for information at this time. Mr. Anderson will keep in touch with us regarding this matter.
